

The Bedroom

Vincent van Gogh made lots of his paintings outdoors, but he also painted some pictures of the inside of his home, the Yellow House. This is a painting called 'The Bedroom', which van Gogh painted in 1888, using oil paints. You can see his furniture, his clothes and his towel in the painting. There are some pictures on the wall. Maybe they are pictures of his friends and family. When he made this painting, van Gogh was happy and excited, as his friend, Paul Gauguin, would be arriving soon to visit. We can see lots of his favourite colour, yellow, in this painting.

Make a picture of your bedroom (or another room in your house or school). Draw the furniture and the objects in the room. Are there any pictures on the wall? Are there any clues about whose room this is? Use your favourite colour to colour something in the room. You can choose whichever medium you want to use: crayons, colour pencils, felt pens, paint, or collage. You can use the next page to create your picture, or use a separate sheet if you need to.
